CM Fidelity Asia

Fund Aim
 The Fund aims to increase the value of your investment over a period of 5 years or more. The Fund will invest at least 70% in equities (and their related securities) of companies throughout Asia (excluding Japan) (those domiciled, incorporated or having significant business in Asia (excluding Japan) and those which are listed in the region). This region includes countries considered to be emerging markets as determined by the Investment Manager at its sole discretion. The Investment Manager is not restricted in terms of size, industry, or geographical split. The Fund is actively managed. The Investment Manager identifies suitable opportunities for the Fund utilising in-house research and investment capabilities.

Quarterly Fund Manager Review

The fund returned -1.1% net of fees, while the index returned -1.0% over the quarter. Leading Indian private sector lenders, HDFC Bank and ICICI Bank, extended their positive run after reporting solid results in the third quarter of 2024. The fund also benefited from avoiding oil and gas major Reliance Industries where weakness in global oil prices hurt the stock. Trip.com, the largest online travel agent in China, also featured among contributors, as its revenue and market share gains stood out in a lacklustre consumption backdrop. Positive sentiment towards the IT sector lifted the fund's positions in selected Taiwanese technology names. These include Wiyynn, which specialises in servers for hyperscalers, MediaTek, a 5G integrated circuit specialist and Alchip Technologies, which specialises in Application Specific Integrated Circuits (ASIC). Samsung Electronics fell sharply due to disappointing outcomes in its high-bandwidth memory (HBM) chip business and its impact on its quarterly earnings. We continue to hold a favourable view of Samsung because of its potential to catch up in HBM chips with global rivals, world-class capabilities in narrowing the technology gap relative to competitors, and its higher market share of conventional DRAM chips. Not holding Chinese technology company Xiaomi partially offset gains. The company released specs for its latest EV model that were quite well received by investors, who overlooked how crowded the Chinese EV market has become. Elsewhere, weakness in AIA hurt the returns from Hong Kong.
