Quarterly Fund Manager Review

Developed market shares were flat in the third quarter as declines in September erased earlier gains. Emerging market equities underperformed amid a market sell in China. US equities notched up a small positive return in the quarter. Strong earnings had lifted US stocks in the run up to August, when the Federal Reserve seemed to strike a dovish tone, confirming its hesitance to tighten policy too fast. However, growth and inflation concerns late in the quarter meant US equities retraced their steps in September. Eurozone equities were also flat, while UK equities rose with the market driven by a variety of factors. The Japanese equity market achieved a total return of 5.2% for the quarter. In the bond markets, US and European government yields were unchanged for the quarter as an initial decline reversed in September amid a hawkish shift from central banks and continuing inflationary pressure. The UK underperformed, with a significant rise in yields on increased expectations for monetary policy tightening. The US 10-year Treasury yield finished at 1.49%, one basis point (bps) higher. Yields fell initially, as the rapid economic recovery appeared to be moderating. However, as the market's focus turned to rising inflation and the prospect of the withdrawal of monetary policy support, yields rose back to similar levels seen at the beginning of the quarter. The UK 10-year yield increased from 0.72% to 1.02%, with the move occurring in September. In Europe, the German 10-year yield was one basis point (bps) lower at -0.19%. Italy's 10-year yield finished 4bps higher at 0.86%. The property market has been significantly impacted by the Covid-19 pandemic. The pandemic has also led to long-term changes in the way we live and work and the switch to home working will likely result in a reduction in demand for office space in the short term. However, centrally located modern office buildings with good air conditioning and connectivity should see a recovery in demand as the effects of the pandemic subside. Town centre retail, however, still faces serious challenges as banks, bookmakers, fashion retailers and travel agents move more of their business online.
