Quarterly Fund Manager Review

Gilt yields rallied lower over the quarter, led by bonds with maturities of six to 10 years, as escalating trade tensions, political uncertainties and signs of weakening growth turned a sell-off at the start of the quarter into a strong rally to the end of the year. This saw the 5-year yield fall 27 basis points (bps) to 0.90%, the 10-year yield fall 29 bps to 1.28% and the 30-year yield fall 10 bps to 1.82%. A collapse in oil prices over the quarter pared market expectations of longer-term inflation, and the 30-year breakeven rate fell 7 bps to 3.34%. The outlook for the UK economy remains mixed and clouded by uncertainties over Brexit. GDP growth slowed to 0.4% in the three months to October; down from 0.6% in the three months to September. PMI data fell sharply over the fourth quarter, hinting at a trend of slowing growth. A steep decline in the services PMI outweighed a strong rebound in manufacturing and continued — albeit slowing — expansion in construction to drag the composite reading for November to 50.7. While above 50.0 and still indicating expansion, this suggests the weakest composite activity since mid-2016. Consumer spending painted a brighter picture as retail sales grew by a stronger-than-expected 1.4% in November compared with October, reflecting the growing importance of Black Friday. Retail sales over the three months to November increased by 0.4% compared with the previous three months. CPI inflation fell to a 20-month low of 2.3% in November (from 2.4% in the two prior months) as the sharp slide in oil prices offset continued upward pressure from most broad categories of goods and services. The labour market remains buoyant, with an unemployment rate of 4.1% in the three months to October virtually unchanged from the summer. Despite the strong labour market building domestic inflation pressures, the Bank of England left policy unchanged over the quarter as it pointed to a softening outlook for global growth and considerably intensified Brexit uncertainties. In the face of mounting uncertainties, markets have all but priced out expectations of a rate hike in 2019.
