Quarterly Fund Manager Review

The fund delivered a total return of -2.65% (net) during the quarter. The FTSE All-Share index returned -0.35%. The fund's comparator benchmark, the IA UK All Companies sector provided an average return of -1.30%, which placed the fund in the 4th quartile of the peer group. For the year as a whole, total return of 11.12% was still very significantly ahead of 7.92% for the benchmark, and 9.47% for the FTSE All-Share. This performance put the fund firmly in the top quartile (11th percentile) for the year. The Fund remains in the top decile of around 200 funds in the peer group over 3yrs, 5yrs and 10yrs. In Basic Materials, the majority of outperformance came from not holding Rio Tinto, but there were helpful contributions from holdings in Agnico Eagle Mines and Anglo American. Stock selection in the relatively flat performing Consumer Staples sector helped boost performance, with Imperial Brands the biggest single contributor. The Financials sector was the source of greatest challenge to relative fund performance. The fund's underweight position in the strongest performing sector (against a backdrop of rising bond yields) as well as stock selection, detracted from performance. Not holding a benchmark position in major index component HSBC, seen to be a beneficiary of rising $US bond yields, significantly detracted from relative performance. Prudential was a further detractor to performance over the insurer's China exposure. There was further weakness from not holding London Stock Exchange and Standard Chartered. Some of the sector weakness was offset by outperformance from exposure to UK domestic Banks NatWest and Barclays. NatWest continued its strong year, as the company announced third quarter results earnings above expectations and upped its outlook for full-year performance. Similarly, Barclays reported third quarter results which were better than expected and lifted its guidance for the year.
