Quarterly Fund Manager Review

The Fund generated a negative return, net of fees, during the quarter. It was ahead of its benchmark. Increasing regulatory intervention in China affected a number of the Fund's holdings. However, this was outweighed by strong stock selection elsewhere, particularly in a number of the Fund's Indian holdings and stocks within the industrial sector. The biggest contribution to outperformance came from positioning in technology. Stock selection in financials detracted, owing mainly to positioning in insurance and the underweight in banks. Within energy, alternatives were positive but not holding oil, gas and coal stocks detracted as commodity prices surged. The Fund's lack of exposure to utilities also detracted slightly. The list of top-performing stocks over the quarter was dominated by Indian holdings. Info Edge was the biggest stock contributor while financial services company Housing Development Finance was also a strong performer. Food service company Jubilant FoodWorks performed well after reporting strong earnings in the latest quarter. The share price of Tata Consultancy Services hit a record high against an improving demand environment. Elsewhere, strong performance came from NARI Technology. It is the leading supplier of electricity hardware and software to the Chinese state grid. Copper foil producer Ilijin Materials positively contributed. In a strong demand environment for electric vehicles, lithium producer Orocobre performed well. The Fund's biggest detractors were affected by the regulatory crackdown in China. Tencent Music Entertainment fell on news that China's market regulator would ban Tencent and its affiliated companies from exclusive music copyright agreements. Shares in the food delivery platform Meituan fell heavily on the announcement of reforms to strengthen protections for workers. The share price of New Oriental Education plummeted following the announcement of surprisingly draconian regulatory measures aimed at the private education sector. Online entertainment brand Bilibili was also affected. Ping An Insurance was affected by unsubstantiated fears about greater regulatory scrutiny of the insurance industry. We bought Sungrow Power Supply, which is the leading Chinese solar inverter manufacturer, and Shenzhen Inovance, which is the domestic market leader in China's industrial automation sector.
