Total returns are calculated using the sell (exit) price, net of management fees and gross of tax as if distributions of income have been reinvested at the actual distribution reinvestment price. The actual returns received by an investor will depend on the timing, buy and exit prices of individual transactions. Return of capital and the performance of your investment in the fund are not guaranteed. Past performance is not a reliable indicator of future performance. Figures showing a period of less than one year have not been adjusted to show an annual total return. Figures for periods of greater than one year are on a per annum compound basis. The current benchmark may not have been the benchmark over all periods shown in the above chart and tables. The calculation of the benchmark performance links the performance of previous benchmarks and the current benchmark over the relevant time periods.

Commentary

The Balanced Fund returned 2.9% (3.2% for the wholesale fund) over the September quarter, underperforming the benchmark which returned 3.1%. The largest contributors to fund performance were the international and domestic equities portfolios which returned 4.3% and 3.9%, respectively. Globally equities markets performed well, with the US and Japan leading the way. In the US, the S&P 500 increased 5.8% while in Japan the Nikkei 225 increased by 6.9% over the quarter. Domestically the equities market was relatively subdued compared to other markets, with the S&P ASX 200 returning 2.4%, as concerns about Australia’s slowing economy weighed on investor sentiment.

While overall global market performance was strong there was significant volatility, particularly during August. Markets continued to be sensitive to political developments with regards to Brexit and trade tensions between the US and China.

Despite these concerns, the international equities portfolio posted positive performance across all sectors over the quarter. The biggest contributors to performance were utilities, which increased 13.1% over the quarter, and real estate, which increased 8.3%, as investors continue to chase yield and stability in a low-interest-rate and volatile environment. Consumer discretionary (which increased 6%) and consumer staples (which increased 5.4%) were also strong contributors as consumer sentiment in the US continued to show positive signs.

Domestically, the largest contributor to performance was stock selection in the communication services sector. While overall the sector declined by 3.2%, the fund’s holdings in the sector appreciated 5.3% driven in part by REA Group, which returned 13.4% over the quarter as sentiment around the housing market improved.

The fixed interest portfolio benefited from a further decline in bond yields, while the fund’s commercial property exposure benefited from further capital appreciation as the sector continues to be attractive for investors due to strong tenant demand and a low-yield environment.
