

Specialist International Share (Hedged) Fund

On-platform Class A
Quarterly Update for 31 March 2026

Description

The Fund normally invests in international shares.

Investment Objective

The Fund aims to provide total returns (income and capital growth) after costs and before tax, above the Morgan Stanley Capital International (MSCI) World (ex Australia) (ex Tobacco) Accumulation Index with Net Dividends Reinvested, hedged in AUD on a rolling 3 year basis. The Fund may be suitable for investors seeking to invest in a diversified portfolio of international shares. This is achieved through direct investment into the Specialist International Share Fund, with the aim of principally hedging the investment back to Australian dollars. The Fund aims to pay distributions half-yearly. You should be aware that although the Fund aims to pay distributions, the amount of each distribution may vary, or no distribution may be payable in a distribution period.

Fund Commentary

The Fund produced a small negative return for the March quarter, though pleasingly was well ahead of the benchmark. Longer-term performance remains strong, with double-digit returns delivered on average over the past five years. The hedged exposure to the Australian dollar had a positive impact on the quarter's return, amid AUD weakness relative to the USD.

International shares pulled back by 3.2% over the March quarter in local currency terms (or 6.2% in Australian dollar terms), as war broke out and escalated in Iran, leading to surging global energy prices and significantly disrupted shipping routes, resulting in a meaningful deterioration in global economic sentiment. The December US earnings season meanwhile saw most companies beating earnings expectations. The tech sector again led the way on earnings growth, though financials and materials companies also did well amid signs that non-technology businesses more broadly are seeing relatively stronger conditions. Reflecting this, the tech sector generally underperformed as traders shifted preferences towards other sectors. (All returns quoted are in local currency terms and on a total-return basis, unless otherwise stated.)

Our five underlying managers produced mixed performance over the period, which we would expect given a diversity of investment styles. Amid surging commodity prices, energy stocks were strong contributors overall, through stocks selected by our managers such as TotalEnergies, Petrobras and Devon Energy Corp.

While it can be tempting to focus on short-term market movements, particularly given recent global events, we encourage investors to think long-term. Corporate fundamentals remain reasonable, particularly in the US, which is likely to be a prime driver of broader global shares over the medium to longer-term. We believe a diverse basket of quality businesses bought at reasonable prices will serve investors well over the long-term.
