1 The managed portfolio performance represents total return for the periods. Returns have been calculated using the time-weighted method, they assume distributions are reinvested and are after investment management fees and indirect costs. Total and growth returns include accrued distributions, while income return includes paid distributions only. Returns do not take into account tax payable. Individual client returns may vary based on the contributions, withdrawals, and timing differences within the managed portfolio

Quarterly manager commentary

Market Update

The Australian market had another strong month in March, finishing up 3.3% for the month and 5.3% for the quarter. Real Estate delivered the largest returns (+9.7%), while Energy (+5.3%) and Utilities (+4.8%) were the other market-leaders. Despite only a minor retraction (-0.6%), Communications finished as the only sector in the red. The Small Ordinaries index outperformed the ASX 200 index, returning 4.8% for the month.

Global developed markets equities gained 3.0% in March, lifting the quarterly gains to 14.1%, led by the US tech sector. The 4.3% quarterly decline in the Australian dollar was a headwind for hedged exposures. Emerging markets equities gained 7% for the quarter, yet still underperformed developed market equities.

The domestic property sector performed very strongly over the March quarter gaining 16%, while Global REITs (-1.4%) and Global Infrastructure (+1.8%) significantly underperformed other growth assets over the quarter.

During the month the RBA decided to leave the cash rate target unchanged at 4.35%, with the headline monthly CPI indicator momentum easing over recent months. Australian bond markets remained relatively unchanged with 10- and 2- Year Bond yields falling 5 and 4 basis points respectively over the course of the month.

In the US., the Federal Reserve announced it would maintain the overnight federal funds rate at 5.25%-5.5% for the fifth consecutive meeting, with recent indicators suggest that economic activity has been expanding at a solid pace. Total nonfarm payroll employment rose by 303,000 in March, and the unemployment rate changed little at 3.8%.

Both the domestic and global fixed interest indices increased over the month, with the Bloomberg AusBond Composite 0+ Years Index and the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index (AUD Hedged) up 1.1% and 0.8% respectively.

Portfolio Update

The portfolio delivered a return of 7.88% over the past quarter. Global equities significantly outperformed domestic equities, while real assets underperformed the broader market.

The portfolio's global equities allocations generated solid returns over the quarter, with the strongest returns coming from the VanEck MSCI International Quality ETF (+16.9%) and the VanEck MSCI International Small Companies Quality ETF (16.3%), while the value biased Barrow Hanley fund (GLOB) underperformed (+8.9%).

The portfolio's domestic Real Estate exposure (VAP) performed very strongly over the March quarter gaining 16%, while the Resolution Capital Global Property Securities Fund (-1.4%) and Global Infrastructure (+1.8%) significantly underperformed other growth assets over the quarter. Gold traded at record levels during the quarter, gaining 11% over the period.

In Australian equities, the Core SMA returned 2.9% for the month and has gained 5.8% over the quarter, outperforming the benchmark by 53bps. At the stock level, key contributors for the quarter were Goodman Group (+34%), Resmed (+18%) Suncorp (+21%) and QBE insurance (+26%), while the main detractors were Woolworth (-10%) and BHP (-10%). The resources sector exposure, VanEck Australian Resources ETF, returned 2.9% over March as commodity prices rebounded.

Market Outlook

We continue to hold our optimistic view on the economic cycle, supported by positive macroeconomic data and sentiment. We anticipate that central banks will loosen their monetary policies, but at a slower rate than currently predicted by the market. It's worth noting that the market has recently adjusted its expectations for future rate cuts in line with our position, as persistent inflation will likely moderate central bank actions.

Our Dynamic Asset Allocation (DAA) remains unchanged this month, with a broadly neutral stance across asset classes. We prefer investing in Global Small Caps over Global Large Caps in the Global Equities category, given the relative valuation opportunity that we see.

Regarding defensive investments, we see value in holding longer-duration fixed income as it provides some protection if we are wrong and macroeconomic conditions worsen. Looking ahead, we recommend keeping an eye on the weakness of the Australian dollar, monitoring any policy changes from the Chinese government to stimulate its economy meaningfully, observing any changes in the scope and magnitude of fighting in Ukraine and Israel, and tracking developments in the US presidential primaries.

A Special Comment on Lonsec's Gold Allocation

Central banks are buying gold to strengthen their currencies and reduce reliance on the US dollar. According to the latest data from the World Gold Council, central banks have purchased over 1,000 tonnes of gold each year for the past two years.

Gold offers several advantages for investors looking to diversify their portfolios and manage risk. Historically, it has acted as a hedge against inflation and currency devaluation, preserving wealth during economic uncertainty. Additionally, its value tends to increase when traditional assets like stocks and bonds face challenges, making it an effective diversifier that can help lower portfolio volatility and improve risk-adjusted returns.

Given the current uncertain economic and geopolitical environment and the growing interest in gold-backed currencies, demand for gold is expected to remain strong. An allocation to gold within the Lonsec models can be a risk-off diversifier. This helps mitigate downside volatility and improve overall portfolio performance across various market conditions.
