Quarterly manager commentary

Market Update

Many Central Banks around the world cut interest rates in December and are likely to continue at a more gradual pace, except in Japan where rates are expected to rise as it emerges from a period of deflation.

Fears of a US recession grew, due to weaker conditions in labour markets and the manufacturing sector. However, other data showed strong overall conditions including Q2'24 GDP growth, driven by household consumption. Economic conditions weakened in the Eurozone, led by German manufacturers. Meanwhile, conditions remained lacklustre in China driven by ongoing weakness in its property markets, while economic activity improved in Japan with wage increases boosting consumption. during the quarter.

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) cut interest rates by 0.5% to 4.75 - 5.00% p.a. as confidence grew around the inflation outlook. A number of European regions, Canada and New Zealand also cut interest rates by 0.25% in the quarter due to reducing inflationary pressures.

In Australia, the RBA kept interest rates unchanged at 4.35% p.a. over the quarter noting it "remains vigilant to the upside risks to inflation" effectively pushing back against expectations for an interest rate cut in the coming months. Economic activity remained weak over the quarter. Q2'24 GDP was 0.2% Quarter-on-Quarter (QoQ), bringing the Year-on-Year (YoY) rate to 1.0%, driven by weak household consumption. Business survey responses indicated slowing conditions, with retail facing the most challenges.

International Shares overall continued to produce strong returns. The quarter saw some volatility, with markets initially declining due to fears of a US recession before recovering as the Fed began cutting interest rates. International Government Bonds rose due to US recession concerns and anticipation of a US interest rate cut with Australian Government Bonds also producing a positive return, albeit lagging global peers.

Gold prices hit a record high during the quarter as central banks cut interest rates internationally. Industrial metals like iron ore ended the quarter slightly lower due to weak economic data from China, despite a late recovery after Chinese policymakers pledged to stop the decline in property markets. Finally, oil prices ended the quarter lower, despite rising tensions in the Middle East, due to speculation of supply increases by OPEC+.

Portfolio Update

Portfolio changes during the quarter:

Following the U.S. election results and the strengthening of the U.S. dollar, Mercer unwound its short-term gold position, while increasing allocations to Australian Fixed Interest and Global Equities due to attractive domestic yields and a favourable macroeconomic outlook. This resulted in increased allocations in the Macquarie True Index Australian Fixed Interest Fund, iShares International Equity Index Fund & JP Morgan Global Select Equity Fund.

Due to the strong appreciation of global equities in recent periods, Mercer have implemented rebalancing trades to realise some gains and realign underlying exposures closer to their target. This resulted in trimming the iShares International Equity Index Fund in global equities to reallocate to Fixed Interest through Macquarie True Index Australian Fixed Interest Fund and Vanguard International Fixed Interest Index Fund.

Additionally, the Jennison Global Equity Opportunities Fund has been introduced to replace the Hyperion Global Growth Companies Fund. Jennison maintains a much less concentrated portfolio relative to Hyperion, making it more attractive from a risk management perspective.

Market Outlook

Looking forward, Mercer expect international economic growth to remain resilient but regionally divergent. Mercer do not expect the US to enter a recession but anticipate slowing yet positive growth, with corporate and consumer balance sheets remaining strong. We expect US inflation to slow further, driven by a decline in services inflation, and expect the Fed to continue cutting rates. Furthermore, Mercer expect China's growth to improve from its current slow pace, supported by favourable government policies. Other emerging economies will also benefit from these policies and their own central bank policies, aiding their growth.

In Australia, Mercer expect high interest rates and cost-of-living pressures to keep household consumption and economic growth suppressed. Core inflation is expected to decline at a slower pace compared to other developed economies due to pressures in residential rental markets. While the RBA has indicated vigilance against inflation risks, Mercer do not believe it will commence a new series of hikes. Rather, we believe that interest rates have likely peaked this cycle.
