Introduction

This Target Market Determination (TMD) is required under section 994B of the Corporations Act 2001 (Cth) (the Act). This TMD describes the class of consumers that comprises the target market for the financial product and matters relevant to the product's distribution and review (specifically, distribution conditions, review triggers and periods, and reporting requirements). Distributors must take reasonable steps that will, or are reasonably likely to, result in distribution of the product being consistent with the most recent TMD (unless the distribution is excluded conduct).

This document is not a product disclosure statement (PDS) and is not a complete summary of the product features or terms of the product. This document does not take into account any person's individual objectives, financial situation or needs. Persons interested in acquiring this product should carefully read the PDS for the product before making a decision whether to acquire this product. Important terms used in this TMD are defined in the TMD Definitions which supplement this document. Capitalised terms have the meaning given to them in the product's PDS, unless otherwise defined.

Appropriateness

NMMT Limited has assessed the product and formed the view that the product, including its key attributes, is likely to be consistent with the likely objectives, financial situation and needs of consumers in the target market as described above. The attributes of this product in Column 3 of the table above are likely to be suitable for consumers with the attributes identified with a green TMD Indicator in Column 2.

Investment products and diversification

A consumer (or class of consumer) may intend to hold a managed portfolio as part of a diversified portfolio (for example, with an intended product use of minor allocation). In such circumstances, the managed portfolio should be assessed against the consumer's attributes for the relevant portion of the portfolio, rather than the consumer's portfolio as a whole. For example, a consumer may seek to construct a balanced or moderate diversified portfolio with a minor allocation to growth assets. In this case, a managed portfolio with a High risk/ return profile may be consistent with the consumer's objectives for that minor allocation notwithstanding that the risk/return profile of the consumer as a whole is Medium. In making this assessment, distributors should consider all features of a managed portfolio (including its key attributes).

Consumer's other objectives/needs

Ability to customise portfolio or accommodate other holdings	Green	The following customisations are available: Income payment elections, Managed Portfolio Investment preferences
Management of tax position	Green	The underlying investments in your Portfolio are treated as beneficially owned by the investor. All income, dividends, distributions, capital gains and losses, and their tax consequences, accrue directly to the relevant investor. If you are investing in the Portfolio via a North Platform IDPS account, the investor is you. If you are investing in the Portfolio via a North Platform super account, this is the relevant superannuation fund. Investors can also transfer certain investments into and out of the Portfolio without triggering any tax consequences (provided the beneficial ownership remains the same). The First In First Out (FIFO) capital gains tax accounting approach is used.
Visibility of investments in portfolio	Green	Clients have complete visibility and transparency of portfolio holdings and trading activity.
Transfer of existing investments into portfolio	Orange	Clients are able to in specie transfer existing investments, if the underlying managed portfolio holds the asset. The managed portfolio houses discounted unit classed funds, which are not able to be in specie out, if the client wishes to exit the Scheme.

Distributor Reporting

Significant dealings

Section 994F(6) of the Act requires distributors to notify the issuer if they become aware of a significant dealing in the product that is not consistent with the TMD. Neither the Act nor ASIC defines when a dealing is 'significant' and distributors have discretion to apply its ordinary meaning. The issuer will rely on notifications of significant dealings to monitor and review the product, this TMD, and its distribution strategy, and to meet its own obligation to report significant dealings to ASIC. Dealings outside this TMD may be significant because:

- they represent a material proportion of the overall distribution conduct carried out by the distributor in relation to the product, or
- they constitute an individual transaction which has resulted in, or will or is likely to result in, significant detriment to the consumer (or class of consumer).

In each case, the distributor should have regard to:

- the nature and risk profile of the product (which may be indicated by the product's risk rating or withdrawal timeframes),
- the actual or potential harm to a consumer (which may be indicated by the value of the consumer's investment, their intended product use or their ability to bear loss), and
- the nature and extent of the inconsistency of distribution with the TMD (which may be indicated by the number of red and/or amber ratings attributed to the consumer).

Objectively, a distributor may consider a dealing (or group of dealings) outside the TMD to be significant if:

- it constitutes more than half of the distributor's total retail product distribution conduct in relation to the product over the quarter,
- the consumer's intended product use is solution/standalone,
- the consumer's intended product use is core component or higher and the consumer's risk/return profile is low, or
- the relevant product has a green rating for consumers seeking extremely high risk/return.
